Gov. Perdue Appoints Barrett to Special Superior Court Judgeship

RALEIGH - Gov. Bev Perdue today appointed District Court Judge Sharon Tracey Barrett as a Special Superior Court Judge.

“Judge Barrett was a distinguished attorney and has been a valuable member of the judiciary. I am pleased to appoint her as a Special Superior Court Judge,” said Gov. Perdue. “She will be a great addition to the superior court.”

Since 2005, Barrett has been a District Court Judge for Buncombe County. Prior to serving as a judge she practiced for nearly 20 years as a litigator at the firm of Patla, Straus, Robinson and Moore, P.A. in Asheville. As an attorney she represented clients in all courts from Small Claims Court to the United States Supreme Court.

Barrett received her undergraduate degree from Boston College, in Chestnut Hill, Mass. and her law degree from Georgetown University Law Center.
